

Cell phone usage on-board airplanes does not need to be allowed inside the cabin after the doors of the aircraft have been closed for departure. It is difficult enough to get the safety demonstration across to people without having them be preoccupied with seeminly important conversations on cell phones.